Background

Today the world confronts enormous challenges in tackling environmental problems. With increasing pressure on ecological balance, local level efforts are required for environmental conservation and for combating global climate change.

Smriti Brichhya, the commemorative tree is the initiative of youth that attempts to motivate people in nature conservation through plantation in memory of their loved ones or any auspicious occasions. It also endeavors to channelize financial contribution made by individuals to promote greenery in agriculturally non-feasible and unused land. Besides, the programme will play a vital role to support Government policy to increase forest cover.

Objectives

- To promote sentimental attachment of human with nature and environment.
- To channelize financial contribution of individuals for greenery development & nature conservation.
- To contribute in combating global climate change.
- To support government policy to increase forest cover and conserve biodiversity.

Appeal of SMRITI BRICHHYA

Smriti Brichhya appeals all the individuals/Family/Groups/Institutions/Organizations etc. to participate in the programme through plantation to mark the memory of beloved one or any auspicious occasion. And to contribute in nature conservation as well as to combat global climate change/or adopt zero carbon emission.
