Youth In Environ Profession

“Preparing Youth for Professional Challenges”

YOUTH IN ENVIRON PROFESSION (YEP)

"Youth in Environ Profession (YEP)" is a joint collaboration between Youth Network for Social and Environmental Development (YONSED) and Starbucks Youth Action Grants Program of the International Youth Foundation (IYF) and the Starbucks Foundation. This project is designed to address the challenges among the young graduates (between ages 20-30 years) to find a good job and start their own enterprises/businesses. This project intends to generate adequate professional capacities in youth by providing them professional trainings, technical assistance and access to resources through Environment Professionals' Training and Research Institute (EPTRI).

GOAL

YEP aims to generate the capable young professionals in the environmental sector through capacity building trainings for strengthening the roles of youth in environment conservation and sustainable development in Nepal.

OBJECTIVES

1. To create a resource center for young graduates to build their professional capacities
2. To generate capable young professionals in the environmental sector
3. To strengthen youth's role in conservation and sustainable development

CAPACITY BUILDING PROGRAM

YEP project intends to initiate an innovative platform for environmental graduates to build their professional capacities and polish their potentials to compete in professional marketplace and work towards sustainable development of the nation. This project provides following ten trainings to the 150 selected young graduates by providing full and/or partial scholarships:

SN	Training Courses	Month
1	Proposal and Report Writing (PWR)	Dec 2011
2	Fundraising and Resources Mobilization	Jan 2012
3	Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA)	Feb 2012
4	Entrepreneurship Skills	Mar 2012
5	Journalism	Mar 2012
